Erwin Fischer
Vice President of IT - Ultradent Products, Inc.

I'm currently the VP of Information Technology (IT) at Ultradent Products, Inc. - a dental products company of over a thousand employees. I started more than thirty years ago, when Ultradent was much smaller. I spent about five years working in manufacturing, shipping, sales, and accounting, before taking over IT.

Over the last twenty-five years, I've fulfilled many IT roles including: wiring, networking, server and desktop support, programming, Oracle database administration, server and apps admin, application design, etc. While the last ten plus years have been primarily management, I do stay up-to-date in several areas. I currently manage a group of about forty individuals.

I'm also a proud father of four. I spend time when at home with my kids and wife working in the yard, hiking, hunting, or occasionally playing video games together - an especially great way to connect in the evenings with my frequent business travel.
